Notes:

An interest in U.S. Air Force fire protection organizations and their insignia led to the development of this listing. Organizationally, generally and historically, the base fire “department” has been a subordinate unit of the Installation / Civil Engineering Squadron. In addition to the unofficial base fire department patches many of the IS / CES insignia display some form of fire motif; helmet, nozzle, ax, ladder, etc.

It also appears that at times base fire protection organizations, particularly at overseas and smaller bases, have been subordinate units of Air Base and Combat Support Squadrons. In addition to IS / CE squadron activations and inactivations, this may account for some of the missing dates and locations in this listing.

The dates listed are those that I can find some reference for although the organization may have been at that location prior to or after the listed date. The dates from the mid-1980s through the 1990s are the most likely affected. The intent of this listing is to be a starting point for further research by interested individuals. Any additional information, additions, deletions, or corrections would be welcome.

My thanks is extended to the historians and staff at the Air Force Civil Engineer Support Agency (AFCESA), Air Force Historical Research Agency (AFHRA) and Air Force History Research Office (AFHSO), for their help in making available some of the research material and other historical information, but the information in this document is that of the author and not necessarily that of the AFCESA, AFHRA, AFHRO, or the Department of the Air Force.
